

Making Your PBM Strategy Work for You

Leaf Health is Proud to Work with Berkley Accident and Health as a PBM Consultant

With prescription drug costs continuing to rise, Pharmacy Benefit Managers (PBMs) are a key component of an employer's strategy to manage health plan costs. However, it can be difficult for employers and their benefit consultants to navigate the complex and evolving PBM landscape.

To help employers gain insight and transparency into their PBM strategy, Berkley Accident and Health, has launched PBM Checkup, an innovative program for employers with self-funded health plans. Leaf Health is proud to partner with Berkley to empower companies with an independent evaluation of their PBM strategy.

Berkley A&H policyholders can receive up to a

Stop Loss renewal credit.¹

How PBM Check Up Works

1. Check Up Starts Before Renewal Before the start of the renewal process, the policyholder and broker connect with Leaf Health. The policyholder provides required data (current PBM, claims data) to the Leaf team.
2. Analysis Leaf performs an in-depth analysis of the claims data, comparing current PBM to other available solutions.
3. Repricing Report The policyholder receives the report and shares it with Berkley before renewal period starts.
4. Rating Credit at Renewal Berkley receives the report and applies the Stop Loss renewal credit.

"We're very proud to work with Berkley and deliver this strategic guidance to their clients to ensure their PBM solution is delivering the maximum amount of savings."
